"A what?" asked Ronald, rousing himself.

"A detective, sir." explained Smithers. "I know him. Oh, not on my own business; it was a pal of mine who got into trouble. He's on the look-out for somebody or something." "He's looking out for me," said Ronald quietly.

Smithers instantly thrust up the trap-door in the roof of the cab and told the cabman to turn around. When the cab had gone some little distance. Smithers looked hard but respectfully at Ronald. "Just in time, sir," he said. "I'm glad I caught sight of him, as the mouse said when it saw the cat watching for it on the other side of the cheese. Nothing serious, I hope, sir?"

Ronald hesitated for a moment; but there was something so honest, so trustworthy, in the blue eyes turned to his, that he hesitated for a mo-
